Canadians Surround 7,000 at Dunkerque

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN THE DUNKERQUE AREA (CP)—Canadian infantrymen are sweeping right around Dunkerque today, traveling over lowlands the Germans flooded five months ago. The town, its port and the historic evacuation beaches, now probably heavily mined by the enemy, are being isolated.

Dunkerque with its German garrison of an estimated 7,000 men is quickly being locked off in the same manner as Le Havre, Boulogne and Calais.

Thomas Reid, Liberal M.P. for New Westminster, was one of seven tied in second place, one-fifth second off the exact time. These seven will split $750.

Russ Push In Bulgaria May Free All South Balkans Within Week

Georgiev Heads New Government Says Sofia Radio

By DANIEL DE LUCE
MOSCOW (AP)—The Red Army's sweep through Bulgaria appeared likely today to free the Balkan peninsula entirely of Germans in less than a week and open sea lanes from the Mediterranean to Ukrainian ports in the near future.

The Sofia radio heard in New York today announced former Premier Kimon Georgiev had taken over the premiership of Bulgaria from Konstantin Muraviev and formed a new government. The broadcast, reported by the U.S. Federal Communications Commission, gave no explanation of the shift. Muraviev's cabinet Friday declared war on Germany after requesting an armistice from Russia.

The Bulgarian drive was coordinated with operations of Marshal Tito's Partisans and Allied commando units in Yugoslavia.

Opening of the Mediterranean for shipments to Black Sea ports would cancel the need for the vast overland supply route from the Persian Gulf. The U.S. Persian Gulf command, whose transportation achievements in Iran have been impressive in the last two years, is expected to be available soon for transfer to a Pacific theatre of war.

RAIN THREAT IN NORTH
In northern Poland, with the threat of autumn rain and mud growing daily, Gen. M. Zakharov subdued heavy German counterattacks against his Narew River bulge toward East Prussia southwest of Mommz. The German air force strongly supported the enemy ground effort in this sector.

A front line dispatch to the army newspaper Red Star admitted the Germans at first made small gains, but said these were wiped out in bitter fighting.

German forces are hammering resistance positions in the centre of Warsaw "unceasingly and with strong pressure," a communiqué from Gen. Bor, head of patriot forces inside the Polish capital, said today in a broadcast communiqué.

Berlin reported the Russians had opened a new offensive on the route to Karkov in southern Poland.

Russian and Romanian forces won strategic control of southern Transylvania with the occupation of the communications centre of Sibiu and Soviet tanks and shock troops were pushing rapidly on toward the Mures River, which flows into the Hungarian plain. Russian armor had driven within 128 miles of the flat open frontier of Hungary.

GREETED AS BROTHERS
The Soviet Union accepted Sofia's request for an armistice following on Bulgaria's declaration of war against Germany. Russian veterans who moved into Bulgaria from Romania on a 135-mile front were greeted by the Bulgars as brothers in arms.

Front dispatches said no hostilities jarred the Russian advance across Bulgaria, which followed the capture of two big ports, Ruschuk (Ruse) on the Danube, and Varna on the Black Sea. Presumably the Bulgarian army, now a co-belligerent, will be assigned an active role in the Balkan clean-up.

The Kremlin, through the press and radio, continued to call on the Hungarian people to follow Bulgaria in abandoning the doomed Germans and save their independence.

THIRD OF BALKANS WON

Bulgaria's outright participation in the war turned approximately one-third of the total area of the Balkans into Allied territory. It transformed the German withdrawals from southern Yugoslavia, Albania, Greece and the Aegean Islands into desperate action which might end in final disaster at any moment.

A Day of Reckoning In France

Photos above show in dramatic fashion the end of the trail for 10 young Frenchmen who, during the four long years of Nazi domination of their country, chose to side with the enemy. Two were sentenced to five years in prison, two to hard labor for life. The remaining six were condemned to death and, as seen in the photo above, were summarily executed by a French Forces of the Interior firing squad.

Island Fire Situation Growing Steadily Worse

Fire situation on Vancouver Island and many parts of the mainland is "pretty bad," officers of the government's forest branch said today. "The fire danger is definitely extreme," Chief Forester C. D. Orchard said. "We must take every possible precaution."

Fires on the island, however, are generally under control, but the least wind could soon change them into roaring infernos.

The Youbou fire is not quite under control, the forest branch said, and could still prove dangerous.

A fire on the Sooke Road is under control, because there is a fire-line around it, and soldiers from nearby camps are fighting valiantly.

"Nothing is under control if a wind springs up," said a forest branch officer.

A small fire is reported burning near Leechtown, in the Sooke area.

Generally the atmosphere over the southern end of the island commenced to grow smoky today.

"The situation will grow progressively worse until there is a change in the weather," Mr. Orchard said. "High humidity and fogs would help, but what is really needed is a good rain."

It is unusually late in the season for a serious fire situation to have developed in the woods. Usually, by this time of the year, the forests are safe.

The woods are locked-up tight to the public, and it is illegal for anyone to enter them. Hunters, for the first time in years, were forbidden to go after deer and grouse on what they thought would be the first day of the hunting season.

Shortage of help worries the forest branch, should the situation become worse. There is no one to fight fires "and we have to ask the help of the army," one forest branch officer said, adding that the army has been most cooperative and soldiers have done good work.

Today's weekly forest fire report, signed by Assistant Chief Forester George P. Melrose, shows that to date there have been 1,485 forest fires in B.C., compared with 968 at this time last year and 1,219 in 1942.

Street Railwaymen Vote to Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Charles M. Stewart, chairman of the advisory board of the Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster locals of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (A.F.L.), announced today the street railwaymen have voted overwhelmingly to appeal a regional War Labor Board wage award.

The regional board awarded a 4½ cents an hour overall wage increase. The union had asked increases ranging from 10 to 16 cents an hour. The union will apply immediately to the regional board to reconsider its decision or authorize an appeal to the national board.

Mr. Stewart said 1,825 have voted to appeal the decision and 85 to let the decision stand. One ballot was spoiled. The 1,911 votes comprised an almost 100 per cent vote, Mr. Stewart said, because remaining union members mostly were absent on vacation or sick. There are about 2,300 union members in the three cities.

Liner Rex Bombed, Burns Off Trieste; 60-Degree List

ROME (AP)—The 51,000-ton liner Rex, one-time queen of the Italian merchant fleet and an Atlantic record holder, lay burning in the northern Adriatic Sea off Trieste today, after a blistering attack by rocket-firing Beaufighters.

More than 120 rockets hit the big liner, some below the waterline, and reconnaissance disclosed she was lying motionless with a 60-degree list to port.

In August, 1933, the Rex crossed the Atlantic from Gibraltar to Ambrose Light, in New York harbor, a distance of 3,181 miles, in four days 13 hours and 58 minutes.

The valley is walled in by insurmountable mountain ranges, except for a small canyon through which a mountain stream drops 2,000 feet to the floor of the valley. Swamps extend for hundreds of miles outside the ranges.

The U.S. planes flew up and down the valley several times. The pilot, Maj. Myron J. Grimes, counted more than 100 villages and estimated the total population would be more than 10,000, the correspondent said.

Quebec Ready To Greet F.D.R., Churchill

QUEBEC (CP)—Preparations were well underway today for the conference here at which Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt will discuss the final stages of the European war and the intensified campaign against the Japanese in the Far East. The meeting, at a still undetermined date, will be the second in 13 months of the British and U.S. leaders in this city.

Although censorship did not permit identity of Quebec as a locale of the meeting until Friday night, Quebec people had known for some time previously that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt would be coming here. Among the signs that pointed to the forthcoming conference were the fact that hotels were refusing reservations after Sept. 1 and that a convention of French-speaking medical doctors had been canceled.

REPORTERS ASSEMBLE
Newsmen already had arrived in force for the conference and have taken up residence at the Clarendon and St. Louis Hotels, while the Chateau Frontenac has been taken over by the government for the official delegates.

When the two leaders were here a year ago, Quebec citizens were thrilled, and today look forward with anticipation to the forthcoming meeting.

It was believed the leaders might review their declaration at the Casablanca conference that only unconditional surrender would be accepted from the Axis powers. At any rate, the principal discussion probably will be the conquest of Germany and pursuit of the war effort against Japan.

Roosevelt Sees Aides Before Trip
WASHINGTON (AP)—In apparent preparation for another war meeting with Prime Minister Churchill in Quebec, President Roosevelt conferred today with key diplomatic and economic advisers, and also saw the British ambassador, the Earl of Halifax.

For the third time this week, Mr. Roosevelt received a three-member cabinet committee named to study war-created economic problems. The members are Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau.

Another White House conference of potential importance was with Robert Murphy, newly named adviser on German affairs to Gen. Eisenhower's command. Mr. Murphy has just returned from Italy, where he saw Prime Minister Churchill, and there have been London reports that Murphy would attend the Quebec meeting.

TALKS WITH DAVIS
Another presidential caller was Elmer Davis, Director of War Information, who recently accompanied the President to Hawaii.

Friday, Mr. Roosevelt met with his top chiefs.

But military problems blend into those of occupation and economic control. Speculation here lists these also for consideration at Quebec, for in the past Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have not confined themselves to a rigid agenda.

Premier Stalin's absence again is attributed to the pressing problems of the Russian front. It is taken for granted he will be kept informed of all British-U.S. views relating to the crumbling German front.

A reevaluation of the war in the Pacific, especially the part Britain will play when peace comes to Europe, also is in order at Quebec.

V-Day Police Order
Chief of Police John McEllan will take no chances on demonstrators causing trouble on V-Day. He has posted the following notice in the Victoria police station:

"In the event of an armistice being declared, all members of the department are to report for duty at once."

7th Army Advance Less Than 25 Miles From Belfort Gap

By SID FEDER
ROME (AP)—Seventh Army forces, driving rapidly northeast through the Doubs River valley from Besancon, have reached a point less than 25 miles from the Belfort gap route into southwestern Germany, Allied headquarters announced today.

Already U.S. troops had covered at least half the distance between Besancon and the key city of Belfort.

(An Associated Press dispatch from the French-Swiss frontier Friday night said three Allied motorized columns were approaching the city, with the most advanced only 10 miles distant. This dispatch said Allied artillery opened up on the city as early as 4 a.m. Friday. The Germans, in strength, in good positions, appeared determined to defend the gap, the dispatch said.)

FRENCH IN LE CREUSOT
French troops driving northward west of the Americans overran the towns of Le Creusot, Chagny and Montchanin-les-Mines in the heart of a coal and iron area that long has fed the Nazi war machine.

In this region lies the Schneider metallurgical works and plants with a capacity of 30,000 tons of steel annually. The area often was a bomber target.

West of the Saone River the French kept up a steady pace toward Dijon and cleared the enemy from Beaune after two days of stiff fighting. Beaune lies 18 miles north of Chalonsur-Saone on the route to Dijon.

Skirting the Swiss frontier in a northward push the French troops seized the Jura Mountain towns of Pierre-Fontaine and Malche, the latter 25 miles south of the ancient gap at the end of the Vosges Mountains, 30 miles from the German border.

GAIN SPEED
The 7th Army, after being held up by bitter opposition at Besancon, picked up speed and again drove eastward to the vicinity of Roulaux le Grand, 10 miles nearer Belfort.

This attack apparently was intended to catch the 3rd Army's flank and break through to the rear west of the Moselle River and perhaps attempt to split the 3rd Army front from the 1st U.S. Army's line north through the Ardennes forest.

The Germans were reported depleting the Reich of reserves to bolster the menaced Siegfried Line—putting all their eggs in one basket just as in Normandy where they staked all and lost on the Caen-St. Lo Line.

SAPPING RESERVE FORCE
The Germans were reported scraping together garrison forces, training battalions and anything else available until it was doubtful whether there were now five field force divisions in the whole of interior Germany. The sapping of strategic reserve strength would leave the heart of the Reich barren of defence once a real breakthrough was made—just as was France when the Allies in the north smashed into the open five weeks ago.

For that breakthrough Gen. Eisenhower's great battle team was moving into final assault positions—under a security blackout of news—along 400 miles of the German frontier at key points ranging from 15 to 25 miles in front of the Siegfried Line.

The British 2nd Army in the north held its five-mile deep bridgehead over the Albert Canal against increasingly fierce resistance as the Germans battled to stem this flanking sweep toward the northern anchor of the Siegfried Line at Cleve, a German border town 65 miles southeast of Amsterdam.

FORCE ANOTHER CROSSING
(The BBC in a broadcast heard by NBC said the British had forced another crossing of the Albert Canal 25 miles east of Antwerp and west of the original crossing in the face of increasing enemy resistance.)

These were the positions of the U.S. armies:
The 1st Army in Belgium drove beyond the captured fortress city of Liege to less than 18 miles from the German frontier in the vicinity of Aachen.

Violent rain and thunderstorms hampered Allied attempts to press the attack, but the tempo of the fighting was not reduced.

Palazzo and the neighboring Hill 151, six miles inland, were seized by British forces, who beat off determined tank counterattacks.

The village of Menghio, 1,000 yards west of Croce, and the same distance south of Hill 151, was also retained by the British in the face of desperate Nazi lunges to regain lost ground. Two miles farther inland the battle raged in the town of Gemmano for the third day with unabated fury. The Germans still hold the western half of the town.

Canadians Occupy Ostend, Nieuport Without Battle

LONDON (CP)—British 2nd Army forces, beat to pieces a last-hope German attempt to break out of the coastal entrapment between Lille and Ghent in Belgium today while U.S. forces poised for a killing blow at the Siegfried Line, smashed the heaviest counterattacks the Germans have mustered since the battle of Normandy.

The Germans were desperately rallying reinforcements and fighting with bitter determination in these preliminaries to the battle of Germany. While the breakthrough attempt was being smashed by the British Army, other British vanguards forced a new crossing of the powerfully-defended Albert Canal, some 25 miles east of Antwerp. The enemy was reported rushing reinforcements from Holland to guard the northern sector of the Siegfried Line.

In the Belgian coastal area where the Canadians walked unopposed into the big fort of Ostend, the Germans quit without a fight. "This is a tremendous thing," said one of Gen. Dempsey's senior staff officers of the Canadian occupation of Ostend and the nearby port of Nieuport.

TOWARD DUNKERQUE
In the 1st Canadian Army sector farther south along the Channel coast, patrols pushed close to the sea between the great ports of Calais and Boulogne. The threat to Dunkerque grew as other Canadians reached Leon Plages, on the main Dunkerque-Calais road.

Along the Moselle, the U.S. 3rd Army was becoming engaged in the first full-scale battle since the original breakout of Normandy July 25.

Associated Press correspondent Wes Gallagher, with U.S. 3rd Army forces, declared the scale and weight of the counterattack the Nazis launched through Thionville indicated the German army had succeeded in pulling together enough forces for a determined stand.

This attack apparently was intended to catch the 3rd Army's flank and break through to the rear west of the Moselle River and perhaps attempt to split the 3rd Army front from the 1st U.S. Army's line north through the Ardennes forest.

Polish Dispute Barrier To Dumbarton Oaks Accord

By FLORA LEWIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russian delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks conference still is withholding agreement with Great Britain and the United States on whether a nation should be allowed to vote in the world security organization on disputes involving itself.

This problem, which was disclosed today, may not be settled before the end of the deliberations among Russia, Britain and the United States on plans for an international agency to keep peace, and may have worked out by Stalin, Churchill, Roosevelt themselves.

NO YIELDING
It is one point, it was understood, on which the Russians have firmly refused a compromise agreement.

The issue is deeply significant, because officials feel it is the one way of enabling the world organization to function in case one of the Big Four nations is an aggressor.

The agreed voting procedure on the council of the proposed agency is that the decision to use force against an aggressor must be made by at least a majority of the council, specifically including all the permanent "big power" members.

Thus, under the general voting procedure, any of five countries—Britain, the United States, Russia, China, and, eventually, France—could veto international action against itself.

However, there is an added provision barring participation of a nation in a vote on questions involving itself. This is not agreeable to Russia, and the main reason for Russia's hesitation is believed to be the Russo-Polish dispute, aggravated by the present Warsaw situation.

OFFERS REJECTED
The Russians have shown considerable determination to settle their quarrel with the Poles without outside interference, rejecting an offer of good offices from the United States.

They also rejected, it was learned, a British request to use Russian bases on the Italian-Soviet shuttle run for sending aid to the embattled people of Warsaw, waging open war against the Germans, while the Red Army is poised a few miles away.

As a consequence, the R.A.F. attempted to take supplies direct to Warsaw from British bases, and is reported to have suffered heavy losses on the return trip to Britain.

Luxury-Living Stories Lie, Says Wodehouse

By HENRY B. JAMESON
"PARIS (AP)—P. G. Wodehouse, British humorist, who was severely criticized for talks he made on the German radio in 1941 after his release from a German internment camp, declared here any reports he had lived in luxury in Berlin and had been treated with favoritism by the Germans were "pure lies."

Wodehouse, creator of the famous Jeeves, gentleman's gentleman, and a host of other popular fiction characters, said he hoped to go to the United States as soon as possible after the war.

"The world completely misunderstood my purpose in connection with the broadcasts from Germany," he said in an interview at the Bristol Hotel in Paris, where he and Mrs. Wodehouse have been living for the past year.

The author said he had been released by the German Gestapo in the usual manner after a year's imprisonment, as were numerous other British civilians. He declared his wife had sold most of her jewelry to get money for them to live on and "this would refute any idea that we were aided by the Germans."

HIS OWN IDEA
As for the talks over the German radio, he said, "wrong as it may have been, it was my own idea as a means of talking to my many friends, letting them know I was well and acknowledging letters and parcels from those who had been so helpful in seeking my release."

"The Germans never once asked me to broadcast or made any suggestion as to what I should say. I wrote my own script and passed it through regular censorship channels."

"Altogether, I gave five talks each at different phases of the internment camp life. I had experienced," said the novelist. "They were mostly on the comical side."

Industries, Railways On Route of Allies Wrecked By Heavies

LONDON (CP)—More than 1,000 U.S. heavy bombers, escorted by more than 250 fighters, smashed today at industrial and rail targets in the Ruhr and the Rhineland ahead of the advancing Allied armies.

The big bombers, striking targets in Germany for the second successive day in support of the mounting ground offensive, hit Mainz, Mannheim and Dusseldorf. Friday night R.A.F. Mosquitoes smashed at Nurnberg again, rounding out a heavy day which saw Brest pounded twice and the Le Havre and Boulogne garrisons again battered by the big bombers.

Heavy bomber attacks were carried out Friday against oil plants at Ludwigshafen, rail yards at Karlsruhe and depots and factories on the outskirts of Mainz.

WATCH FOR SHIPS
A constant patrol was kept Friday night over shipping around the Netherlands islands, although pilots reported seeing no concentrations which might suggest evacuation attempts.

Mosquitoes set bridges afire in the Flushing area of the southern Netherlands where the Germans are trying to escape from Belgium by the Rotterdam-Schelde, and also in the Rotterdam vicinity.

The Nurnberg attack was a highly concentrated two-minute affair with blockbusters raining down on the former Nazi congress site.

Most of Robot Coast Completely Overrun

By ROSS MUNRO
WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM (CP)—Canadian tanks and infantry were closing in on Bruges, and unconfirmed reports today said leading patrols had advanced into that town, 10 miles west of the Netherlands border and 12 miles south of Zeebrugge on the coast.

(Paris radio today reported "Allied patrols"—presumably part of the 1st Canadian Army—had "broken through the inner defences of Boulogne.")

Practically the entire French-Belgian rocket coast now has been overrun by Canadian, British and Polish troops of the Canadian Army. It is estimated about 300 flying-bomb sites have been discovered in this advance and probably more are hidden away in isolated woods which have not yet been investigated.

None, however, can be used by the enemy.

They are all "V-1" sites and there is no evidence yet of any "V-2" sites in this neighborhood. The mop-up of the coastal area was slowed somewhat by extensive German defensive flooding of lowlands between Boulogne and Dunkerque.

Hart, Anscomb to Study West Coast Highway Costs

The long-talked-of West Coast Road moved a step closer to completion today with announcement by Premier John Hart, following Friday's conference of Greater Victoria M.L.A.'s, that the government would look into "estimates of cost."

There was general satisfaction among Victoria businessmen at the government's willingness to study every fact.

G. Hamilton Harman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which for years has been pressing for completion of the highway from Victoria to Port Renfrew, said the chamber is pleased that the government will look further into the situation.

"It would seem that now the government is realizing the importance of finishing this road," Mr. Harman said.

W. C. Clark, chairman of the chamber's West Coast Road committee, said his committee would meet again shortly to discuss the road plans.

Friday Premier Hart and Hon.

Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Public Works, met in the Premier's office with Norman Whitaker, M.L.A. for Saanich, Mrs. Nancy Hodges and W. T. Straith, K.C., members of the Legislature for Victoria, all of whom are in favor of completion of the road as soon as possible.

"We are going to look into estimates which have been made previously and have them rechecked," Mr. Hart told the press after the conference. "Mr. Anscomb and I plan to visit the area as soon as possible to see for ourselves, so as to be able to speak with knowledge of the conditions. We are very keen to get the facts, but until we do, that is about all we can say about it."

It will be a week or 10 days before the Premier and Mr. Anscomb can go by motor to the end of the present road, some miles beyond Jordan River for Mr. Anscomb has left for Vernon to attend the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. He is also Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Want League of Nations, Want It Left Open to All Nations

By Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO—While, against a background of intense international debate, various plans for world security come before the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, the Canadian general public retains an apparently deep faith in the ability of the nations of the world to work together for the maintenance of peace.

Those cynics who claim that it is against the laws of nature for the nations of the world to hury the League of Nations into the international objectives in the interest of world peace, and that, therefore, any kind of international League of Nations is doomed to failure before it is even organized, are not in the majority in Canada, according to a national poll just completed by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion.

Basis of the poll, which was conducted among a representative cross-section of the Canadian electorate, was the question:

"After this war, do you think some sort of League of Nations would work; or do you think it is impossible for the nations of the world to work together to keep the peace?"

Only about one in five think that the league idea is impractical: League would work, 55 per cent; league would not work, 21 per cent; undecided, 16 per cent; qualified, 8 per cent.

The multiplex problem of a postwar international organization for peace has been tried out on the Canadian public by the institute, from a survey of approaches, over the past few years. Common denominator in all these surveys is the evidence that the public has faith in a world organization of some kind, and that this faith is prevalent in all parts of Canada.

New Fur Exchange In Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—A fur marketing service will be inaugurated in Saskatchewan by the provincial government with a fur exchange to be operated in Regina, where furs will be sold by auction. Natural Resources Minister J. H. Phelps announced Friday.

Decision was made by the government after fur dealers, trappers and ranchers in the province had been circulated to determine whether they would favor the government taking such action.

More than 15,000 questionnaires were distributed by the government to those interested in the fur industry in the province. Ninety-six per cent of the trappers, 81 per cent of the ranchers, and 81 per cent of the dealers, who replied to the questionnaire, indicated they were in favor of a fur exchange.

Trappers and ranchers will be able to ship their furs direct to Regina to be sold by auction, instead of sending them to Winnipeg, Saskatchewan has been the only province without a fur exchange, according to the minister.

Merriman Round-up...

STANTON GRIFFIS, who was sent to Sweden on a government mission to effect a reduction in the shipment of SKF ball bearings to Germany, took every precaution against the Nazi spies in Sweden. When Griffith was ready to return, by plane, he left his hotel casually, as if he were going for a walk. He took a street car, walked again, took a taxi, circled the city, took another street car, then another cab, and when he was positive that he had eluded the Nazi spies trailing him, he went to the airport and entered the plane. He sat there for a long time. Then the steward told him: "Sorry, but we can't take off today. Motor trouble."

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, in discussing Henry Wallace's defeat, told of the time when Winston Churchill, running as an anti-Socialist Independent, opposed Ferner Brockway, the Independent Labor Party candidate for Parliament from the Abbey division of Westminster. "I hope," Shaw wrote Brockway, "that you are not contesting Westminster under the impression that the whole electorate is as intelligent as I and my neighbor, Sir James Barrie. Westminster once elected John Stuart Mill, but it never recovered from the shock of finding it had elected a really great man. Needless to say, it turned him out at the next election."

Chinese, Japs Battle In Streets of Tungan
CHUNGKING (AP)—Japanese forces smashing down the Hunan-Kwangsi railway, have broken into the important town of Tungan, 90 miles from Kweilin, provincial capital of Kwangsi, the Chinese high command announced today.

The Japanese penetrated the city after a 95-mile dash from Hengyang, in which they captured Lingling, U.S. air base city near the Kwangsi border. Sanguinary street fighting raged in Tungan, the Chinese said.

The penetration of Tungan supported a growing conviction here that the enemy was likely to succeed within a few weeks in taking Kweilin, the main objective of this drive. Loss of that city would remove one of the main props of the south China defence system.

The Chinese command said conquest of Sungshan, Japanese tunnel fortress astride the Burma Road in Yunnan province, virtually is completed.

Coupons Valid Dec. 31
OTTAWA (CP)—Housewives needn't be in a big hurry to use up their canning sugar coupons. The Prices Board announced today canning sugar coupons F1 to F10 in ration book No. 3 will remain valid until Dec. 31 and until that date each coupon is good for a pound of sugar. If sugar isn't needed the coupons can be converted into preserve coupons.

An official explained that early announcement of the expiry date was being made to reduce unnecessary purchases of sugar by those who have not used all their coupons.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The German transport ship Westfalen was reported to have hit a mine Friday off Gothenburg, Sweden, and sunk with the loss of more than 200 Germans and Norwegians. Swedish officials denied there were any soldiers aboard and scouted reports current here the ship may have been carrying troops from Norway.

B.C.'s Payroll In Year Reached $381,196,427

B.C. workers' payroll last year rose to the unprecedented total of $381,196,427, an increase of $78,303,481 over the previous year, according to the 1943 report of the Department of Labor, made public today by the minister, Hon. George S. Pearson.

Average weekly wage for all adult male wage-earners rose to $37.19 for 1943, an increase of $1.93 over the previous year and the highest in B.C.'s history. Greatest payroll increases were in the shipbuilding industry, up an additional $18,000,000 over 1942; followed by the construction industry, up $13,000,000; metal trades, up $7,500,000; and lumber industries, up $3,000,000. Decreases were noted in only three industries—metal, mining, with a further drop of $490,000; smelting, down $414,000 and pulp and paper mills, down $97,000. Employment totals reached a new high last year, when in August 152,694 persons were at work in industry.

"While in some vital industries production schedules necessitated longer working hours, the average in most industries decreased slightly from the 1942 figures, the general trend being indicated by the average weekly working hours for all employees which dropped to 47.19 from 48.12 in 1942," says the report. Annual payrolls in the last 16 years are of interest. The provincial payroll in 1928 was $183,097,781; in 1933, during the height of the depression, it reached its lowest ebb—$39,126,653. In 1939, the year the war started, it was $165,683,460. It has climbed steadily since that time, until this year it will probably reach $400,000,000.

Vancouver Island's industrial payroll has grown from $34,329,612 in 1939 to $67,700,485 last year. Greater Vancouver industrial payroll jumped from $57,591,570 in 1939 to $178,704,884 in 1943. In 1943 there were 423 B.C.

firms reporting annual payrolls of more than $100,000; nine firms had payrolls in excess of $5,000,000; one between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000; five between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000; 11 between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 and 20 between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

Collecting blood here to save lives over there

FORD V-8
ENGINE

It's always dependable!

IN THE QUIET of a little Canadian town a Ford "Red Cross" truck pulls up in front of a hall, school or church. Trained technicians hurry sterile equipment into the building, and soon the townspeople and folks from the surrounding farms are giving blood to save the lives of the boys overseas. Then, right on schedule, the truck is on the way to the next town or village. This is the Mobile Blood Donor Service of the Canadian Red Cross, which collects the blood of thousands of eager donors living far from the permanent clinics in the big cities.

To the deafening roar of our artillery, our men advance behind a protecting wall of fire. Close behind them come Ford military ambulances, pushing forward along shell-torn roads on their missions of mercy.

Swiftly the wounded are given first aid, or snatched from the jaws of death with life-saving blood serum from Canada.

Whether on the battlefield or on the home front, these trucks must get through on time. Their drivers have complete confidence in the famous Ford V-8 engine. It's the engine proved by millions in peacetime... tried and proved again by war's cruel tests on the frozen fronts of Russia, in the swirling sandstorms of North Africa, in the mud and mountains of Italy and the battlefields of France. More than 300,000 Ford military vehicles, serving under every Allied flag, have told the same wonderful story of the Ford V-8 Engine... "It's always dependable!"

PROBING THE RAMPARTS

BEFORE THE WAR HAS GONE FAR into its sixth year the world will learn just how much fight is left in the German armies. In various spots in the four active fronts the forces of the United Nations are meeting with stubborn resistance. But it is evidently not of a quality likely to cause anything beyond a temporary delay in the inexorable advance toward the Reich proper. The opening phases of the Battle of Germany are now unfolding. All the indications suggest that General Eisenhower is about to test the strength of the Siegfried Line by probing the approaches in several places. Until the results of these attacks are revealed it would be wise to refrain from predicting the date of the European enemy's capitulation—regardless of what form of surrender will end the shooting.

Of special satisfaction and significance is the knowledge that the history of the present conflict already has run past that of the first Great War. This time the German people will see and feel the scourge which their armies have let loose on the world twice in a generation. Perhaps if they had seen and felt it in 1918, the course of history might have run very differently; this global conflagration might have been avoided. Historians have divergent views on the amount of fight left in the Kaiser's legions in the weeks immediately preceding the armistice. But the general staff began to lose heart in the early days of that September; it went on the defensive, and urged the government to seek peace. Most military men, moreover, are in agreement that it was the prospect of visible and ignominious defeat in the field, not solicitude for the safety of German homes, which prompted the high command's advice to Berlin. It is still true the remnants of the once-proud imperial battalions straggled home in some semblance of order. Here was the origin of the "stab-in-the-back" myth.

Of course the German military situation was desperate two months before that fateful day in November, 1918, and none can blame the Allies for taking full advantage of the circumstances. The cost of lives in that struggle in the preceding four years had been frightful. Even those who saw that the Kaiser's Reich needed a further lesson could not deny a world that was weary and longed for peace. Now the position of the Fatherland is again perilous. In many ways it is much worse than at this time 26 years ago, when the Germans were fighting on only one front and their allies were still in the war. But Adolf Hitler is not a Ludendorff or a Hindenburg. He knows that he is hated and doomed; while conscience—if he has any—has made him more desperate than cowardly. And though the end in the west may come quickly, as General Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery have implied, it is fairly certain that if the Fuehrer remains in power, he may try to drag Germany down with him in a bloody and lingering struggle.

Should some such resolve on the part of Hitler and his close associates mark the beginning of the lesson which the German people cannot escape this time, much blood may have to be spilled before even organized resistance is brought to an end. This nevertheless must be considered the price of erasing from German minds the poisonous thought that they are invincible and inviolate. And to what extent and in what thoroughness the Allied armies carry out the job denied to Marshal Foch will depend, by the same token, upon how long the German people suffer themselves to be fooled by the megalomaniac who assumed to chart their course for the next thousand years.

'FAITH AND HONOR'

SHORT OF ALMOST EVERYTHING FOR her war machine—even General Dittmar admits it—Germany is now running out of Nazi slogans. "Strength through joy" is long since departed. "Beauty through work" more recently followed it. But the "super-race" must have slogans, so they have fallen back on, of all things, "faith and honor." The Herr Doktor Goebbels frankly tells the Germans that faith and honor can be dispensed with in good times, "as they can be replaced by success and victory. In bad times, however, these principles are of importance, as they must make up for defeats."

This has not even the frightened honesty of deathbed repentance. Goebbels is simply admitting that, having run out of everything else, he is falling back on a couple of civilized virtues for expedient aid in an extremely bad situation. Obviously it will not work. For 11 years the Germans have been offered faith in nothing but Adolf Hitler by their government. As for honor, the Nazis conceived this war in a series of broken pledges and have conducted it in an atmosphere of egregious lies. And the German people, in condoning and enduring all this, have been but little less faithless and dishonorable than their leaders.

Thus the voluble Herr Doktor once again admits the hopelessness of the Nazi cause by invoking, to cancel setbacks and defeats, principles whose very meaning he obviously has forgotten—if he ever knew them.

PARAGRAPH SEVENTEEN

NEWSPAPER CRITICS OF THE KING government are frantically grabbing at anything which gives them some variant in the fare they are serving up to popularize the leadership of Mr. John Bracken and help him in his arduous task. The speech which Mr. Elliott Little, director of National Selective Service in 1942, delivered in support of the Progressive Conservative Party over the CBC network last Wednesday night has won a large amount of space in a mainland daily's editorial columns. The article is headed: "Whose Fault Is Quebec?" And pride of place is given that sentence in the speech which reads: "It is pure sham to talk any longer of unity in Canada." Maybe so; but we find little in the radio address, the full text of which we have before us, calculated to improve the condition of which Mr. Little complains.

We seem to recall, however, that the few newspapers now welcoming a new voice in the discordant Progressive Conservative choir had a good deal to say about one of the policies which Mr. Little advocated when he was an officer of the King government. And they were correct in their criticism of the then director of National Selective Service. On Dec. 7, 1942, we quoted in these columns an extract from the document which Mr. Little submitted to Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell in connection with the N.S.S. operating formula, and known as paragraph No. 17. It read as follows:

"No person shall, in the course of an investigation under this (investigations) section, insult the director or wilfully interrupt any proceedings before the director, or refuse to obey any order made by the director in the course of an investigation."

We described the foregoing as one of the most astonishing suggestions ever submitted for approval to a democratic government, and argued that "no man who had any experience at all in public life would have been so inept," adding: "Mr. Little's proposed formula, of course, has a place only in a dictatorship, not in a democracy such as ours, where the right of the citizen to be heard against those in power is a basic and long-established principle of our liberties."

The same Mr. Little now speaks for the Progressive Conservative Party and reminds Canadians: "I held the position of director of National Selective Service for a time. The past is past. I have no wish to resurrect it tonight." Obviously; but Paragraph 17 is part of the record. Its author is now a spokesman for Mr. Bracken.

WILL IT BE A LESSON?

"LIFE UNDER THE ROBOT BOMBS" IS the title of an article written for the current issue of The New Republic (New York) by Michael Young from London. It is replete with pungent humor and vividly descriptive. But he has packed a few thoughts into its closing paragraph which ought to be noted by the statesmen and the public of all the countries of the world. It reads as follows:

"Several people have said how grateful they were that the flying bombs had made their appearance at the end of this war: the world would appreciate the consequences of again losing the peace. For those attacked it has been harassing and exciting; for the world it has been an object lesson."

The cost of human life and damaged bodies already has been reckoned in staggering numbers by Mr. Churchill—up to Aug. 3. Many additions will be made to those figures; and more tens of thousands of demolished or badly-shattered homes and buildings will be listed. And all this has come "at the end of this war." Yet political robot bombs have begun to fall on the Dumbarton Oaks conference. Partisan strategists go their blissful way—future designs of Hitler's "V-1" notwithstanding. Will some people never learn?

'WITHOUT DELAY OR HITCH'

IN VIEW OF THE CRITICISM IT WAS fashionable in some quarters a while back to level against the government in the matter of equipment and supplies for the Canadian fighting forces, it is quite heartening to read the testimony of Brigadier Sherwood Lett of Vancouver, who has returned to Canada after commanding three regiments in Normandy, where he was wounded six weeks ago.

"The Canadian army," he said, "is receiving reinforcements from Canada without delay or hitch. Troops have always been prone to be critical of their equipment. You can say that Canadian troops overseas are delighted with the equipment coming from the home front in this war. Vehicles and tanks especially are standing up astonishingly well under constant punishment of battle conditions."

This is a tribute not only to the departments whose responsibility it has been to organize supplies, but to the technicians and other workers in Canadian industry who have kept the supplies of the highest quality rolling forward in ever-increasing quantities.

WHAT SHORTAGE?

WE SEE WHERE MEMBERS OF THE Harvard Faculty Club have been eating horse-meat steaks and onions for the last year and a half—from choice and with gusto. And yet people complain about wartime restrictions of diet. Why, recalls one wag, we can remember back to the days of peace and supposed plenty when there were Harvard undergraduates "who didn't know where the next gold fish was coming from!"

You can tell whether a neighbor's expected guest is a man or a woman. Nobody cleans house for a mere man.

More power to the war effort. You can give it by helping to conserve gas on the home front.

Loose Ends

By PETER EDSON

COMING—GUNS THAT THINK

FOR A PREVIEW OF THE most advanced forces of destruction that will be loosed in World War III, or even in World War II if it lasts long enough, tests of new weapons and new explosives now being made at the U.S. Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., and at the big Naval Air Station, Patuxent, Md., give the best picture. A two-day inspection of these bases, arranged by Navy Secretary James-Forrestal for a small group of newspaper correspondents, reveals the extent to which naval warfare at best has become a war of gadgets.

Begin right with the explosives going into shells, bombs and depth charges. The TNT of the last war was thought to be the ultimate as a force of destruction, but it has already been surpassed. It is still a highly restricted subject for discussion. The British have permitted some mention of their "R.D.X." explosive, but the Americans have something that is a much more stable equivalent. What it will do, of course, is increase the range, velocity and destructiveness of nearly every type of thing that can be thrown at an enemy. It is only one of the new explosives under development.

Tests are being made with new powders that are not only smokeless, but conceal the flash at the muzzle when big guns are fired. This is a highly important development. In night action, the tell-tale flash of a main battery is the worst giveaway of a ship's position.

ROCKETS COME IN VARIOUS SIZES AND SHAPES

ROCKETS, WHICH have caught the public fancy to such an amazing degree, are now in production and in use in a variety of shapes and sizes and from special purpose mounts. Recent Navy communications have revealed the use of rocket barrages fired from landing craft in the southwest Pacific, and in the sinking of a Nazi submarine in the Atlantic by planes firing rockets.

Against submarines, the rocket projectile is of exceptional advantage in that the rocket gives the shell head continued driving power under water. Having all the destructive force of three and five-inch shells, rockets can be fired without recoil. Mounting a five-inch gun on an airplane is today unthinkable. Rockets on planes, however, can be fired in pairs or in salvo to give from two to 10 times as much firepower as could be obtained from a single five-inch gun, and without the extra weight or strain.

Adding more guns and more rockets to aircraft and surface vessels is only one of the means of increasing the firepower which each plane and ship can throw against an enemy. Every effort is being made to increase efficiency and size of each weapon.

PROBLEMS OF FASTER FIRING BEING SOLVED

THE NORMAL rate of fire of a 50-calibre machinegun on land, is 750 rounds of minute. That is 12 rounds a second, but even so, aircraft travelling 300 miles an hour, five miles a minute, 400 feet a second, stand a good chance of missing each other in the intervals of one shot for every 30 feet or more of travel. The problem, then, is one of making the machine guns fire faster and it is being solved.

The 20-mm. cannon-like weapons destined to be stepped up in efficiency—first by twin mounting, second by installation as a packaged gun to be hung from the wing of a plane.

This is only the beginning of what will probably be an era of automatic weapons of sizes that used to be considered too big for destroyers, for the tendency is to make every weapon bigger, better, faster. Five hundred-pound bombs are still effective, but the ratio of 4,000-pound bombs goes up and up. Advances in control of all these new weapons have kept pace with improvements in the weapons themselves. Here is where the real gadgetry comes into play. There are bombights and computing gyroscopic gunsights which do things the original Norden and Sperry models cannot do—complex thinking machines which solve mathematical problems faster than mechanical gunnery devices can execute the answers. Details about these fantastic things will probably not be revealed until after the war.

THE FIELD

I listened while you spoke, and watched the meadow
Full of pale grasses lovely to behold:
The fitful wind ran south and east; the grasses
Stood tall in glistening gold.

And while you talked, like a deep desolate river
Grief against which I had no strength, no shield,
Rose in waves about my heart; and wordless,
Still I watched the field.

Dark is that river and cold, but not forever;
Sorrow and sorrow's memory both shall pass:
Still clear shall shine the image of the beauty
Of the windy glittering grass.

And strange it is to know that I shall remember
The way the field bowed as the breeze walked through,
When I remember no more my heart's wounding,
And have forgotten you.

News Analysis—The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There are many signs that important developments are impending in the war on Japan.

First, London is convinced President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill will meet again in the immediate future—probably at Quebec. They will not only plan for peace but get-set to unleash the entire Allied striking power against Japan the instant Hitler has been knocked out.

Here enters Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters to give us a possible date for the Fuehrer's crack-up. They say the end for Germany may come by early November.

Coincident with this, U.S. bombers have made another heavy assault on Palau, the Japanese naval and air base known as "the Japanese Singapore." Observers, viewing this into the Oriental gaze, think it presages events which will unlock the gateway for a direct assault on the Philippines.

There's one other obstacle still in Gen. MacArthur's way—the island of Halmahera, which is said to be strongly held but has no airfields, which MacArthur needs not only for his own security but for operations against the Nipponese on Mindanao.

Once Halmahera and Palau are disposed of the Allies can move swiftly against the Philippines, recapture of which is about the biggest single step the Allies could take at this stage in smashing Japan.

The Mikado and his little men are aware of the fate which is in store for them. The emperor has appeared before his Diet and has warned his people of the gravity of their position. Premier Koiso at the same time called on the population for a total war effort in what he described as a life or death struggle.

THIS WAR—FOUR YEARS AGO

Sept. 9, 1940—Nazis lost 52 planes over Britain. British fighters bombed Berlin and attacked northern German dockyards. British patrol from Kenya advanced to Goral in Ethiopia. First group of United States destroyers turned over to the Royal Navy at Halifax.

Sept. 10, 1940—Delayed action bomb exploded demolishing the north front of Buckingham Palace; king and queen were absent. Two Nazi E-boats sunk in attack on Calais and Dieppe.

SITUATION NORMAL

From N.Y. World-Telegram

Tearing a leaf from the federal government's book (or perhaps the Montgomery-Ward catalogue), New York City took over custody of the swanky Stork Club after a dispute over some allegedly delinquent sales taxes.

There wasn't any such stir as the Montgomery-Ward incident aroused, however. If the city should find it necessary to carry out the Stork Club's proprietor bodily, onlookers will simply think that it's another patron who has taken a look at the cheque and failed.

BRITAIN IS 'BROKE'

From Detroit Free Press

Ernest Bevin says Britain is "broke." That is, financially. It has thrown everything it had into the war. Bevin is glad it did.

What Hitler could not break was Britain's indomitable will to remain free. Neither could Napoleon. After Waterloo, many Englishmen despaired of digging their country out from under the debt incurred to save Europe. Yet Britain's greatest power, prestige and prosperity lay ahead of it. A nation with that spirit will not be "broke" for long.

TIRES FROM SAWDUST

A recent development of vital interest to British Columbia has just been pointed out by A. W. Cooper of the British Columbia Federation of Trade and Industry.

He says that a pilot plant at Marquette, Michigan, has been converting sawdust into sugar by a new, cheaper and faster process than ever before with a greater recovery. One ton of sawdust will produce one half ton of sugar which in turn yields an average of 50 gallons of ethyl (not wood) alcohol. This new process was brought from Germany by a German who escaped from the Nazis and has been still further developed in conjunction with the experts of the U.S. Forest Products laboratory.

Alcohol is a vital material in the production of synthetic rubber, which is now our principal source of rubber for tires and likely to be for some time in the future. Thus the production of alcohol from sawdust provides perhaps the most important item in tire manufacture.

Mr. Cooper points out that the experiments have shown that soft wood sawdust from coniferous trees like our fir yield 50 to 60 gallons per ton as against 30 to 40 gallons from hardwood sawdust.

MONSTERS AT GOLF

By Edward J. Needham, writing to the Calgary Herald from Montreal

Every time we come to Montreal, we walk up and down St. James Street a few times—just to get the general effect. The general effect, to be frank, is rather disappointing, especially if you walk up and down St. James Street on a Sunday or a holiday, when the legendary monsters who inhabit these parts are all playing golf, when the great office buildings are deserted, and you could easily play a game of baseball right in the middle of the street.

VITAMINS IN BABY'S BOTTLE

In many instances today, doctors are recommending that fruits and vegetables with their vitamins and minerals be given six-week-old infants as supplement to their milk formula.

This is made possible because of Libby's exclusive Homogenizing process which enables baby to digest his food with extra ease in 30 minutes, while ordinary strained foods require 2 hours. This improved process breaks up the tough fibres and food cell walls which baby finds difficult to digest, thus eliminating your anxiety, and reducing baby's digestive upsets to a minimum. Write today for free booklet giving detailed information.

Red Cross-Legion Kiosk To Greet All Veterans

To facilitate the welcoming home of Victoria veterans, the Red Cross and the Canadian Legion are co-operating in the erection of a kiosk at the C.P.R. wharf. The sponsors are hoping that it will be completed, and furnished, in readiness for the formal opening scheduled for Saturday afternoon, Sept. 16, at 3.

Hon. E. W. Hamber provincial president of the Canadian Red Cross Society, will come to Victoria to perform the opening ceremony.

For some time past the Canadian Red Cross and Canadian Legion have been co-operating on a national basis in the reception of veterans all across the Dominion. The Red Cross has been more particularly interested in the stretcher cases, while the Legion gives its attention to any men who have served their country.

But in Victoria, owing to the lack of a D.P. and N.H. discharge depot here, veterans do not arrive in organized groups. They reach here singly or in twos or threes after going through Shaughnessy Heights depot.

And the uncertainty of their arrival has militated against any formal reception, although members of the Red Cross have been regularly meeting the boats for some months past.

With the erection of the kiosk, representatives of both sponsor organizations will be on duty at any and every time a boat comes in. They will be equipped to provide information or assistance to any returned man or woman.

The kiosk is being erected at the entrance to the passenger ramp, between it and the main waiting room entrance. It will be designed in conformity with the main building and finished with cedar siding. The reception room itself will be about 20 feet by 10 feet, 9 inches, and will be comfortably furnished.

The committee in charge of the undertaking includes Mrs. J. W. Spencer and Mrs. W. Hobart Molson, representing the Red Cross, and Harold L. Butteris, supervisor of Canadian Legion War Services for the Victoria area.

Both organizations are arranging for the necessary personnel to man the kiosk and meet the boats through their respective voluntary services.

Capt. R. W. McMurray and other C.P.R. officials have lent valuable co-operation in all phases of the new undertaking.

More Married Women Go Into Industries; One Gets $77 a Week

There were 54,905 women workers in B.C. last year, an increase of 10,444 over 1942, according to the annual report of the labor department.

Average weekly wage for women over 18 years was $15.14 and average weekly wage for women under 18 was $11.03, slight increases over the year before.

More married women took work in industries of B.C. last year than ever before. They formed 37.23 of the total women employed, compared with 29.71 per cent the year before.

There were fewer single women working last year, 59.19 per cent, compared with 66.94 per cent in 1942. This meant, however, that many women who married kept right on with their jobs.

Women office workers stay longer with one employer than any other, the report shows. One woman office worker had been with the same firm 43 years. In the mercantile industry one woman had worked for the same firm 33 years. One laundry worker had been with the one firm for 28 years. Longest service in the hotel and catering industry was 35 years.

Highest individual earnings were shown in the office group, in which one executive employee was paid $77.33 for the week under review. In the manufacturing section one worker earned $70.20 a week.

The mercantile industry reported one woman employee at $65. In the transportation group a woman truck driver earned $59.50 a week.

Saanich Indians Show Handicrafts

SAANICHTON (Special)—The exhibit at this week's Saanich exhibition brought forth much praise from the many Victoria visitors and created wide interest among the Indians of this district and all their neighbors. Underwood Sr. won the prize for the finest Indian rag-mat and also for the pullover sweater, followed by Mrs. G. Underwood Jr. Mrs. T. Paul was first for the coal sweater. Mrs. G. Hospital Comforts Needed By Red Cross

From the busy fingers of Red Cross workers throughout British Columbia, thousands of articles must flow during the next few months to keep the quota of this province up to its mark. New requests for hospital comforts have been received by the provincial work chairman, and workers are asked to make these as soon as possible. During five years of war, B.C. workers have turned out articles in astronomical quantities. From the 1,500,000 yards of material received have been shipped to England nearly 3,000,000 items, while 305,000 pounds of wool have been converted into 571,081 wool comforts. With the end of the war approaching, workers are asked not to slacken their interest. There is still thousands of civilian items of clothing and knitting to be turned out. Thousands of pairs of socks are still needed, while hundreds of sweaters, with the exception of khaki sleeveless, are still needed. Included in the new quotas for hospital comforts are 4,000 pairs of pyjamas, 400 pneumonia jackets and 385 convalescent shirts.

Nose Out Boston 7-6

Yankee bats, copping 10 of their last 11 games, boosted the New Yorkers into undisputed possession of first place in the American League today, a full game on top of St. Louis and a game and a half ahead of idle Detroit.

Week-end action, involving three road games for the Yankees at Boston while the Browns and Tigers engage in three game sets with the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians, may alter the situation but the 1944 version of famed murderer's row was busting the league open.

When the McCarthy clan collected 13 safeties in easing out a 7 to 6 victory over the Red Sox in 12 innings yesterday, the totals for the last 11 games went to 132 hits in 403 at bats, producing 91 runs, better than eight a game. Twenty-one doubles, 11 triples and 12 homers during that stretch upped the "slugging" average to a robust .524.

St. Louis hopes soared when Bob Muncie went to the firing line after passing up his starting turn for 12 days due to elbow trouble but Chicago spurred in the late innings to knock the Browns out of a tie for the lead, 9 to 5.

Mekey Haefner shut out Philadelphia A's with five hits, 4 to 0, last night in earning his 10th for Washington with the help of Gil Torres who drove in two runs and scored another on Russ Christopher.

Brooklyn won the only tilt listed in the National by a 4 to 3 margin over the Phillies despite Buster Adams' 15th homer. Les Webber was the relief winner over Ken Raffensberger.

Smythe Offered Ice Presidency; Dutton Continues

MONTREAL (CP)—Governors of the National Hockey League announced Friday night that Maj. Connie Smythe had been offered the presidency of the league and that in the meantime Mervyn (Red) Dutton would act as president with Lester Patrick of New York as general manager.

There was no immediate announcement, following a day-long meeting, as to the reaction of Maj. Smythe to the offer. It was known that when first approached he had replied by cable from overseas that he would receive word while leading his sportsman's battery in Normandy would keep him on the invalid list for some time.

The announcement said that "in the meantime," Dutton would carry on but that in view of his business commitments in the west he would be absent from N.H.L. headquarters at various times and for that reason Patrick had been named managing director with full authority in Dutton's absence.

Byron Nelson Takes Lead In Texas Golf

DALLAS (AP)—Golfdom's automaton, Byron Nelson, clipped par again Friday to move to a class by himself at the halfway mark of the Texas Victory Open. His card for 36 holes was 69-69-138.

The nation's leading money winner along the summer tournament trail was six strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Harold (Jug) McSpaden.

McSpaden, who had tied Nelson's 69 with a brilliant four-under-par 32 on the back nine of Thursday's opening round, slipped badly yesterday, taking a 75 to fall just one stroke ahead of Sgt. E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Wright Field, Dayton, O., who moved up to 145 with his par 71 yesterday, and Ray Mangrum of Beverly Hills, Calif., who shot a 72 to add to Thursday's 73.

One of the wildest demonstrations ever put on by a Victoria sports crowd, was seen last night at the ball park when the Navy edged out the Army 5 to 4 to win the city championship and end the finest series in the history of the sport here. At the left, part of the huge crowd of 4,500 is seen milling in front of the grandstand while a couple of Navy huskies hold big Eddie Runge, colorful first baseman of the new champions, up on their shoulders. Centre picture shows the Navy players' shouldering second baseman Ken Van Hatten, whose hit in the eighth inning won the game. From left to right: Coach Bobby Wiegand, shortstop Ted Parkins and manager Lieut. Tony Hamilton. Picture at the right was snapped when the Army club was in a jubilant mood. The players are gathered around the home plate to congratulate Vic Valentine as he completed the circuit in the third inning after hitting a home run over the centre field fence. From left to right: Eddie Shepherd, Valentine (No. 3), Tony Maze, Doug Peden, Lloyd Cann, coach Ray Casey, Sammy Kennedy, Julian Sawchuk and Harry Holness. IF THE New York Yankees win this season finishing on the road, the rest of the American League might just as well give up. It might have been true of the old Yankees that Joe McCarthy had only to push a button to get a new pitcher or whatever he needed, including a cluster of runs. But this year McCarthy hasn't been in a position to simply put his foot on a buzzer to obtain results. The Yankees are where they are largely because of one of the finest managerial jobs ever turned in. If the Yankees repeat under the conditions, McCarthy at long last may convince the diharders of what many have known all along—that the Buffalo Irishman with the jutting jaw has something on the ball in the dugout. He had it in Wilkes-Barre, Louisville and Chicago, too. If he comes through this trip, everybody will have to admit he is a magician.

THE YANKEES plainly were down this season. It was the time for the others to kick them around, but they failed to do it. And how can they hope to do it when the war is won. The returning Yankees will still form a young club. Scooter Rizzuto and Bob Johnson are only 26, King Kong Keller and Tommy Henrich 28, Joe Gordon and Joe DiMaggio 29.

MEANWHILE, swift Snuffy Stirnweiss has come along to plant himself solidly at second—even over the remarkable Gordon. And the converted Johnny Lindell out of necessity has bounded into the picture as a stickout centre-fielder and three-base hitter. The Yankees sloughed off a number of games in left and centre fields. Ed Levy had no arm and Lindell couldn't control his. In view of the manpower problem, it hurt when Tuck Stalback broke his leg. Herschel Martin was brought in from Milwaukee. Oscar Grimes could not make the grade. Mike Milosevich did a fair job, but he was no Frank Crosetti and couldn't hit. The club took an upward swing with the arrival of Crosetti. Don Savage was a disappointment at third, where Grimes finally found himself.

THERE WAS little hitting the first half of the year. Hank Borowy and Atley Donald held the club's head above water while Tiny Bonham was getting a late start. Joe Page turned out to be a morning glory. Walter Dubiel only recently built himself a winning streak. Mel Queen and Floyd Stevens crossed the river from Newark to maintain the pace they set in the International League. When Rollie Hemsey was induced the club was left with practically no catching. The 37-year-old Bill Steinecke was called from Portsmouth to back up the work-horse, Mike Garbaruk. The Yankees are hardly recognizable but, thanks to Joe McCarthy's skilful patch work, patience and piloting, they remain very much in the thick of things. It's an old Yankee habit.

Van Hatten-Crosato Heroes In Thrilling Win Over Army

By PETE SALLAWAY

Wild Pitches

By P.S. and A.W.
It was a story-book finish; the kind you see once in a lifetime. The shades of night were falling fast as Ken Van Hatten wiggled his cleats into the dirt in the left-hand batter's box and awaited delivery of the ball by Lloyd Cann.

The winning run was on third base. Two men were out and the count on Van Hatten had reached "two strikes and three balls. Cann got his signal from Sawchuk and fired. The ball swept up to the plate with fair speed and a hook on it. Over 9,000 eyes followed the ball on its flight. If Van Hatten hit, he would be the hero of a most strenuously contested series. If he failed, the game would be called and a replay ordered.

Van Hatten began that short, crisp swing, which has tremendous power in it; like the kick of a mule. He connected with the ball close to the handle and pulled it into short right field, out of reach of both the lofty Peden and the chunky Kouri, who had taken Cross's spot at second for the last inning.

It was the killing blow and the lid blew off. As soon as Van Hatten had crossed first base and Parkins had trotted home with the winning run the 4,500 fans swept over the field and engulfed the Navy players. The bluejackets were lucky to get clear with some of their gear as excited fans demanded their shirts and caps.

The finish was all the more tense because up till the fourth inning it looked as though Army had the game in the bag. They had hit Crosato badly, ending up with Valentine's blow over the fence. From then on, however, Crosato was their master, while the persistent seamen kept pecking away at Cann until they had him beat.

Moe Sparrow will always remember the game, apart from its dramatic finish. Twice he came up with the bases loaded, and failed. Once he nearly hit the centrefield fence, and the next grounded out. Also he was knocked cold behind the bat, and twice made poor pegs to second base with runners stealing. On top of that he failed to field two pitches when he lost the ball, under his feet, and let runners advance.

In retrospect this morning we can survey the series calmly, and here are some of the things that strike us:

The absolute-perfect weather. Holness' catch in the fifth game. Van Hatten, winning blow, plus his beautiful catch a few moments earlier, which ended Army's hopes. The superb pitching of Tony Maze, when he won two games for Army the same day. The almost continuous and courageous pitching of Lloyd Cann.

The ability of Crosato and Ingamells to halt Army batters in the last two games and come from behind to win.

The great personality of Eddie Runge. Besides being a smart, capable ball player he is a "card." The size of the crowds, the greatest in the history of the sport.

A parting wish . . . that these great athletes who have entertained us so well all summer will come back and see us when the biggest show of all is over. Wherever they go within the next few months the players will take with them the best wishes of the fans.

Amid the wildest scenes ever witnessed at the local park Navy were crowned baseball champions of Victoria Friday night. With an all-time record crowd of 4,500 on hand the bluejackets once again showed the fighting spirit that marked their play throughout the eight-game series to come from behind and defeat the Army 5 to 4 in the deciding game.

Ken Van Hatten, who turned in a smart game at second base after being converted from an outfielder, was the toast of the Navy today. It was his hit in the last of the eighth and final inning that broke up the game. Sharing the honors with Ken was courageous Jimmy Crosato, who returned to the pitching mound for the sailors and marked up his third win of the series, despite a sore elbow and shoulder.

After Ted Parkins had crossed the plate with the deciding run, pandemonium broke loose as the thousands of fans stormed onto the playing field. Navy players were mobbed by Van Hatten and Crosato being pushed around as the Navy fans attempted to shake hands or get autographs. Van Hatten was shouldered by several Navy boys and carried around the field. The fans then paid tribute to big Eddie Runge, colorful first baseman of the Navy who had been a standout in the series with his steady performance both afield and at the plate. Before he could break away Runge lost his shirt to some enthusiastic fan. The crowd kept up its victory celebration until darkness forced them out of the grounds.

THRILLING CLIMAX

Beyond doubt the greatest baseball playoff in the history of the sport was typical of every game. After the Army had loaded the bags in the first of the eighth and failed to score a run when Crosato showed all the courage in the world to slam the door in the faces of the troops the Navy put on the winning rally in their half.

Ted Parkins looked them over closely and was given a walk. Bobby Wiegand laid down a sacrifice to advance the runner to second. Al Duz went in as a pinch hitter for Crosato and was thrown out by Holness, sending Parkins to third. After working the count to the full string Latiff walked. Van Hatten stroled to the plate, took two strikes and then cut the ball into short right field and the ball game and series was over. The game ended in the eighth on account of darkness.

Top half of the eighth had the fans in a panic as it looked like the Army would come up with the tie breaking run. Sawchuk was hit by a pitched ball that deflected into catcher Sparrow and knocked him out for several minutes. Play resumed and Holness promptly lined a hit over shortstop after failing to bunt safe. Still a hit groggy Sparrow let a ball go through him and the runners moved up. Crosato tightened his belt and went to work. Cann was a strike out victim. Chapman rolled weakly to Crosato and was thrown out at first, the runners holding their bases. Shepherd went into hit for Cross and was intentionally walked to load the bases. Wer-ness promptly lined a hit over shortstop after failing to bunt safe. Still a hit groggy Sparrow let a ball go through him and the runners moved up. Crosato tightened his belt and went to work. Cann was a strike out victim. Chapman rolled weakly to Crosato and was thrown out at first, the runners holding their bases. Shepherd went into hit for Cross and was intentionally walked to load the bases. Wer-sine lined out to Van Hatten, the second baseman making a neat catch of a hard hit ball and the Army's hopes were blasted.

For the second straight night the Army lost, after outlasting their opponents. Last evening the troops collected 12 hits to nine for the tars. Crosato struck out five and walked one. Lloyd Cann was the losing pitcher and it was a tough one for the veteran to drop. He pitched good ball and his teammates got him a four-run lead by the end of the third frame but the Army just couldn't put a stop to that fighting spirit of the Navy. Cann struck out six and issued four passes to first.

OPENING RUN

Army moved into the lead with a single run in the second. With two away Sawchuk hit on the line into centre field for a single. Holness pushed the ball into right field for a safety. Cann, who by the way collected three hits during the night, singled into right field and Sawchuk crossed the plate. Chapman forced Cann at second for the third out.

Third inning saw the troops continue to rattle hits off Crosato for three runs. Werstine smashed the ball through the middle for a single, went down to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch. Peden lifted a hit into left field to score Werstine. Vic Valentine then brought the huge crowd to its feet with a towering home run over the left centre field fence, giving the Army a 4 to 0 lead.

Navy came roaring back in the fourth with a pair of runs. Van Hatten opened with a double over first base. Bruce popped up to Werstine. Walker beat out a hit to shortstop that was too hot for Holness to handle. Runge doubled against the left centre field fence to send Van Hatten and Walker across the rubber. Sparrow was thrown out by Holness and Parkins by Werstine to end the rally.

Navy showed they were still very much in the game by tying the score in the fifth and the crowd went wild. With one out Crosato dropped a hit into short left field. Latiff was given a walk and both runners moved along on a wild pitch by Cann. Van Hatten drew a life when Peden juggled his roller, Crosato scoring. Bruce's pop up dropped in behind second for a single scoring Latiff.

In the seventh the Navy loaded the bases with two away but Sparrow rolled out to Cann for the third out.

The meeting was called at the request of volunteers who had been somewhat perturbed by the public reaction to the recent announcement of the resignation of A. H. Pease, honorary manager of the corps.

Several pointed out that the impression had been created in some quarters that the corps was being disbanded and the work discontinued and the work discontinued with the result that collections had fallen off. Two Davids Grew Up—One a Warrior Other a Man of Tender Affections

Text: I Samuel 16:1-5; 11:18 By WILLIAM E. GIEROY, D.D.

IN SAUL, first king of Israel, we have seen how a man's weaknesses overcame his strength with ensuing personal ruin and national disaster. In David, Saul's successor, we have this process reversed; we see how in a man of deep faults, who committed serious acts of wrong, even of violence and murder, the elements of strength in character and action nevertheless conquered so that he stands in history as a strong personality, a great king who consolidated his kingdom and left a mighty heritage to Solomon, his successor.

As in the case of Saul the story of David is full of intense contrasts. On the one side is the popular picture of the young shepherd boy, skilled on the harp, a sweet singer and a lover of music, reputedly the author of Psalms, to such an extent that these have been commonly called "the Psalms of David." On the other hand is the picture of a more vigorous young shepherd boy who had slain both a lion and a bear in defending his flock, a courageous young adventurer, as skillful with the sling as with the harp, fearless of the swarming and defiant Goliath, and finding the weak spot in the giant's armor with his smooth, but deadly, stone.

Both Davids apparently grew up, the one still a sweet singer and lover of the harp, capable of tender affection in his friendship with Jonathan, magnanimous toward the vengeful and violent Saul, with passions as deep and as wayward as his tender affections; the other a soldier relentless in his pursuits, a man of the camps and battlefields, the leader of a disaffected company, with his headquarters in the Cave of Adullam, whither came all the discontented of Israel.

Perhaps it may be said of David that he was born for the times to lay the foundations of peace and prosperity through the overflow of those who were making peace and prosperity impossible.

THE GRAVEST sin of David's life was his seduction of Uriah's wife, his willingness to cover up this adultery, and his complicity in murder in ordering Uriah to be put in the battle where he would be sure to be killed when David's efforts to cover up his sin failed. Yet when the prophet Nathan fearlessly brought home to David his grievous sin by means of a clever story, and had boldly charged, "Thou art the man," David rose to a great height of penitence.

Another notable incident reveals his greatness. Tired and hot from the fighting, David had expressed a vague longing for a drink of water from the Well of Bethlehem. Three of his loyal followers broke through the ranks of the Philistines and brought him a cup of water from the well. Victoria Clerics Urge Sober Peace Celebration

Wild abandonment, over drinking and careless license—these are not the ways in which to celebrate the joy of peace, Dean S. H. Elliott, president of the Victoria Ministerial Association, said today.

Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, said that "to go on a binge or jamboree was no way to celebrate the peace." Thanksgiving, he said, was the first thing in the celebration of peace.

"None of us can be so selfish as to forget the sacrifices at the cost of which victory is being achieved," Dean Elliott said today. "There are those who are risking their lives in combat, those who carry a daily burden of anxiety for their loved ones, those who have already had to tread the deep valley of loss and bereavement and sorrow."

"Others, whose trials have been less severe, must guard against being callous and cruel in their thoughtlessness, when the day of peace is declared."

"Everyone of us will rejoice when at last the conflict ends, but the joy God gives can never be expressed in wild abandonment, in overdrinking and careless license."

People would need something of that dignity which Shakespeare expressed in the words: "Let not the soun of shallow foppery enter my sober house," Dean Elliott continued. Shallow foppe, he said, was far removed from Christian joy, a joy in which those who share, who have suffered and sorrowed.

Urge Action Now On Salary By-Law For City Staffs

The civic employees salary schedule by-law "should be implemented at once; and it would appear that the personnel committee might deem it advisable to withdraw their report of the 31st of May and submit an amended one," says a unanimous report of the commission on civic salaries released by Mayor McGavin today.

The report is a reply to a request from the city council for consideration of the by-law based on the "commission's original submission with specific recommendations and definitions of the duties of the personnel committee set up to administer the by-law. Members of that committee are F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, chairman; D. A. MacDonald, city comptroller-treasurer; G. A. Okell, assessor-collector; G. M. Irwin, city engineer and water commissioner; and W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent.

"When drafting our report we were of the opinion the personnel committee would not reach its maximum efficiency of operation in possibly two years' time," the commission informed the council. By that time many employees would be superannuated and the progress of new personnel would be measured. At present, the report said "the personnel committee cannot fully exercise its powers of passing on the efficiency of present employees in view of the fact that judging by the length of service which has been put in by many employees, their services must be interpreted as 'efficient,' if reflection is not to be cast on the heads of departments or members of the council."

The report continues that no reduction in existing remuneration should be made to present employees and adds that where employees are receiving less than the maximum they should be raised to it or be given a pro rata increase on the basis of years of service.

The commission again emphasizes the fact the individual is dissociated from the job and remuneration computed for the position. Revision of categories, left to the recommendation of the personnel committee and the approval of the council, had been left in a manner requiring a long-range view, the commission said.

The report is signed by L. A. Grogan, W. M. Black and E. W. Ismay.

Another Band Concert

Despite notification that the massed band concert of last Sunday would be the final one of the season, a concert will be given by the Esquimalt Garrison Band in Beacon Hill Park tomorrow afternoon at 3, under direction of Bandmaster G. E. Bower.

The program will include the "Masaniello Overture," by Auber; "Pluie D'or" waltz and a xylophone solo, "American Patrol," with musician E. A. Cross, soloist. This last number will be played by special request.

The march, "On the Mall," and selection, "The Prince of Pilsen," will also be played.

Ration Book 5 Ready Oct. 14-21; Good For 50 Weeks

Arrangements are now being made for distribution during the week Oct. 14 to 21, of ration book No. 5, which, unlike previous books, will be good for 50 weeks rather than 34. A. B. Food, local food ration officer with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said today.

"This new book will not need to be replaced until November, 1945, and with the wartime peak of population passed in Greater Victoria, it is expected that it will be distributed to a slightly lesser number of people than ration book 4," Mr. Food said.

Approximately 88,000 books were distributed in Greater Victoria last time, Mr. Food said, and added that the local office knew nothing of what coupons were contained in the new book, or if any rationed items were to be dropped.

Books will be distributed through local ration boards, and though definite dates have not been determined, it is expected that distribution will be held for three days within the set time of October 14 to 21.

"We look forward to the willing cooperation of many volunteer workers who have assisted so materially in the success of past distribution campaigns," Mr. Food said.

"It is understood the new books will be obtained by the surrender to the district clerk of the complete sheet of K coupons in the present book. These coupons are unused, and the stub on the K sheet must show the name, address and serial number of the ration book holder."

At Vancouver the office of the regional superintendent of rationing, O. H. Bell, is arranging for distribution of books by steamers, planes, boat, freight train, and even horseback, throughout British Columbia.

Kenneth Alexander will deliver books to residents of Long Bay and Centre Bay, in his open power boat. At Pender Harbor a representative of a logging company will pick up books and distribute new ones to the head of Jervis Inlet. P. R. Crowe, Swords, a volunteer representative, serves Lasqueti Island, in the Gulf of Georgia.

Gandhi and Jinnah Talk Indian Unity

BOMBAY (CP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi and Mahomed A. Jinnah met today at Jinnah's home and began a discussion which may lead to the settlement of India's Hindu-Moslem problem, among the internal differences held by the British government to be a stumbling block to Indian independence.

In the presence of British, U.S. and Indian reporters and photographers, Gandhi, the president of the All-India Moslem League greeted each other before disappearing into Jinnah's palatial dwelling.

It was the first meeting of the two leaders since the war opened. Gandhi, speaking for nearly 300,000 Hindus, and Jinnah, representing nearly 100,000 Moslems, will explore possibilities of agreement on partition of India into two autonomous sovereign states—Hindustan, controlled by the Hindus, and Pakistan, by the Moslems.

Must Be No Cartels When Reich Beaton, Says Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt says defeat of the German armies must be followed by eradication of cartels as "weapons of economic warfare."

He released a letter to State Secretary Hull Friday which said this can be done only through collaborative action by the United Nations.

To reporters, Mr. Roosevelt remarked the State Department is ready to go ahead and the Justice Department has been digging up a lot of facts.

But, answering a question, he said he had not heard anything definite on whether the German general staff plans to use cartels to prepare for a third war, as was charged in a recent book by Sumner Welles, former U.S. Under-Secretary of State.

The Justice Department has been presenting testimony to a Senate military subcommittee about the cartel situation. Assistant Attorney-General Wendell Berge said Thursday a cartel between Bausch and Lomb Optical Co. and the German optical firm of Carl Zeiss had resulted in giving secret U.S. military information to the Germans and had helped nullify disarmament provisions of the Versailles Treaty.

SAYS VICTORY HASTENED

M. Herbert Eisenhower, president of Bausch and Lomb Co., replied in Rochester, N.Y., that the agreement with Zeiss had contributed "to Allied victories all over the world and will hasten the defeat of the Axis."

Mr. Roosevelt noted in his letter to Mr. Hull some foreign governments, Germany in particular, had encouraged cartels as governmental instrumentalities to achieve political ends.

"The defeat of the Nazi armies," he said, "will have to be followed by the eradication of these weapons of economic warfare. But more than the elimination of the political activities of German cartels will be required. Cartel practices which restrict the free flow of goods in foreign commerce will have to be curbed. With international trade involved, this end can be achieved only through collaborative action by the United Nations."

AUSTRALIA WATCHES

CANBERRA (CP-Reuters)—H. V. Evatt, Minister for External Affairs, gave warning Friday that after defeat the Nazi organization will be continued not only by underground activity but also by the control of patent rights of vital war materials, particularly chemicals.

He advocated rigid control of these materials by international authority as a postwar necessity.

"International cartel and monopoly arrangements" can be manipulated in the interests of long-term plans for German rearmament, he said.

Dr. Evatt opposed a hasty settlement, saying a final settlement with Japan as well as Germany should be preceded by the establishment of permanent machinery aimed at the maintenance of world peace.

Agricultural Group Closes Season

There was no serious reduction in the milk supply from lower Vancouver Island dairy farms through shortage of labor, J. E. Neely, vice-president of the Saanich War Agricultural Production Committee, said when members held their final meeting of the season in Royal Oak Hall, Thursday night.

A few conscientious objectors are busy working on farms and during the summer months a considerable number of servicemen assisted in harvesting of crops, he said.

Mr. Neely expressed the hope that the government would permit activities of the committee, which has been in operation for two years, to continue for another year. The meeting learned that 771 manhours were put in on berry farms during the season and 10,

York to Present 'Madame Curie'

Romance and radium are the principal ingredients of M-G-M's "Madame Curie," picturization of Eve Curie's biography of her celebrated mother. In the film, coming Monday to the York Theatre, the problems of dramatic presentation involved the successful merging of the two, interweaving the warm love story of Marie and Pierre Curie with the cold science which resulted in their world-famous discovery.

There were never any doubts concerning the abilities of Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon to make the happy domestic life of the Curies both tender and believable. They are old hands at married movie romance, now thrice wedded for film purposes. The treatment of the strictly scientific aspects of the film, and the experiments leading to the isolation of the miracle element, radium, were something else again.

Bing Crosby Comes Monday to Capitol

Bing Crosby is such an unassuming fellow many times directors thought to just cast him in a film and let the singer play himself. In Paramount's "Going My Way," arriving Monday at the Capitol Theatre, Bing comes closest to playing such a part. True, he's a young Catholic priest in the picture, but it's Bing in the part all the way through, say Hollywoodites who have seen the film.

Regarded as one of the most sensitive of Hollywood directors, Producer-director Leo McCarey declares Crosby's position as the leading singer of screen and radio is due to no fluke nor yet to any peculiar voice quality. "It's simply that he puts thought into his songs. You understand what he's singing about. He makes it mean something. And anyone with that much profundity can carry it over into his acting, too."

DOMINION THEATRE

Fortunately for us all, there's always someone to see the bright side, no matter how dark the picture. A good example of this is the Warner Bros. latest excursion into the field of hardships engendered by the war. By choosing one such hardship—a decidedly unimportant one—they have come up with a sparkling comedy guaranteed to divert audiences from their more serious preoccupations of the day. The film, which is currently playing at the Dominion Theatre, is "Make Your Own Bed," starring Jack Carson, Jane Wyman and Irene Manning.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Charles Boyer is Great Britain's favorite film actor. The star of Paramount's romantic drama, "Hold Back the Dawn," now at the Oak Bay Theatre, received the honor and trophy for 1940 from the Federated British Film and Stage Association for his work in "All This and Heaven Too." The award is made annually on the basis of a ballot taken throughout the British Isles.

CADET THEATRE

Ole Olsen, the comedian, who played for three years on Broadway in "Hellzapoppin'" and two years in "Sons O'Fun," and never missed an 8.30 p.m. curtain call, got "lost" at Universal Studios and failed to arrive on the set for the first scene of the new Olsen and Johnson picture, "Crazy House." The hilarious film is now at the Cadet Theatre.

Horse Tally-Hos Return to Create Big Business

Mike Caldwell, pioneer transportation man who drove a horse-and-buggy taxi in the old days, takes a full load of tourists on trip through Victoria's business and residential section. Undercarriage of this tally-ho is from an old truck, horses were brought from the prairies for their job.

By KAY MCINTYRE

Two years ago an old horse-drawn tally-ho began to carry tourists on sightseeing trips about Victoria. To street-growlers who watched, it was the latest result of the gas shortage. For visitors it was another tourist novelty.

Today horse-drawn tally-hos are big business in Victoria. Eight of them carry more than 500 tourists a day and bring in a daily gross revenue estimated between $700 and $900.

Two years ago tourists and servicemen often hired a smooth-riding U-drive to take in the city's sights. Now they settle for a horse-drawn buggy costing $2.50 an hour and a jaunt through Beacon Hill Park.

One of the biggest money-making outfits is the Capital City Tally-Ho with five coaches, three of them carrying 23 passengers and two 14 passengers. This company runs seven trips a day using three coaches for week-day trips and all five on their biggest day, Sunday. Their regular one-hour trip covers six miles, taking sightseers through downtown Victoria, up past the old Dunsmuir Castle, now Victoria College, to Government House and then by way of the seafont to Beacon Hill Park.

Manager is A. E. Chilton who pioneered sightseeing in Victoria 31 years ago with the first motor tally-ho built from a Bradford truck. Two years ago his company bought the 10-passenger English tally-ho built in 1870 from a Mr. Lewis at Coal Island that began horse-drawn sightseeing in Victoria again. Their other four coaches have been made in Victoria and from the prairies they obtained the 27 horses which they stable on Douglas Street near the brick yards. "Biggest expense," says Mr. Chilton, "is the upkeep of the horses and cost of drivers who make from $8 to $10 a day. Three of our drivers started in the old days driving coaches before taxis appeared. They are Dave Fair, Mike Caldwell and Scotty Coulson who all began in 1899." Empress Sightseeing which runs four trips a day from the Empress Hotel has one of the original oldtime coaches of the horse-and-buggy era. Resurrected in a Vancouver stable, it was built by E. M. Miller & Co., Quincy, Illinois, at the turn of the century. Then there's Dominion Cab's big tally-ho that carries close to 30 passengers and makes six trips a day.

RIO THEATRE

"Crime Doctor," the Columbia picture starring Warner Baxter, which is now playing at the Rio Theatre, contains many characters that are vividly drawn from real life. Max Marcin, author of the popular radio series from which the picture was adapted, spent several years covering police headquarters as a reporter for the old New York World. In those days he knew practically every underworld character in New York, some of them intimately.

'In Our Time' Stars Lupino and Henreid

The Atlas Theatre will present Warner Bros.' new production, "In Our Time." This remarkable love story, clouded with the hardships of current events, takes place in Poland, just at the beginning of the war. Ida Lupino and Paul Henreid have the leading roles in the production. Also featured are Nancy Coleman, Mary Boland, Victor Francen and Nazimova, who returns to the screen after a long absence. "In Our Time" was directed by Vincent Sherman and produced by Jerry Wald. The original screen story was written by Ellis St. Joseph and Howard Koch.

At the annual meeting of St. Luke's Sunday School Teachers, Hudson Jones was elected as lay superintendent and Miss D. Prescott as secretary-treasurer. Last Big Battle of War Already Fought In West

(This dispatch comes from the correspondent assigned to represent the American press at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters. It was written last Sunday, before the Germans stand on the Moselle River, and released from censorship Friday.)

By HOWARD COWAN
GEN. EISENHOWER'S HEAD-QUARTERS (AP) — The continued retreat of the German armies and their failure to make any kind of organized stand since the Allies pushed them across the Seine leaves but one conclusion — that Hitler has lost the war in the west.

It is most likely the last big battle of the war on the western front already has been fought. Armored pincers will simply keep on stabbing first here, then there, until Germany herself is overrun — just as northern France, and Belgium have been overrun in the past few days.

How long this will take is a matter of the least concern to the Allies.

Most think the jig will be up by early November.

ALLOWED MARGIN
This includes some conservatives who a few weeks ago would not even guess at all.

Gen. Eisenhower, himself, went before 100 newspapermen in London last week and repeated a statement he made in Algiers last Christmas: That the Hun would be licked in '44 if everyone does his part. It is not unreasonable to assume that the supreme commander allowed himself some margin to work in.

It is no secret the speed of the Allied advance is governed only by the time it takes for supplies to catch up with the gasoline-devouring tanks and trucks. Things have developed to a point where one can ask: "When will we be here?" — pointing to any spot in Germany. One gets a prompt and direct answer, qualified by "if the gasoline and ammunition keep up with us."

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. is going at a clip which frequently leaves communications far behind. On several occasions, he has not waited for gasoline trucks to catch up. Hundreds of gallons of captured German fuel powered Patton's tanks in their helter-skelter dashes through and around Nazi defences.

Allied commanders are cheered by the progress which they say would have been absolutely impossible except for Hitler's blind strategy of holding on until his forced withdrawal turned into first a retreat and then a rout.

NOT CONCERNED
It is to be expected that isolated pockets of resistance will be encountered here and there and the Allies are ready for them. The Nazis may try to stand on the Siegfried Line but this is causing no great concern.

The four-year-old fortifications are not expected to halt the Allies any more than the Maginot Line slowed Hitler in 1940.

Although each day sees Allied troops occupying larger chunks of territory once dominated by the Germans, it is still clear that the main objective is destruction of the German army itself and not necessarily the strategic moves that look good on the war maps.

One other consideration has figured in the strategy, however: The liquidation of as many robot-bomb sites as possible. It is evident now the Germans probably thought they could use the buzz-bomb punishment of London as a weapon to persuade the Allies to reconsider their "unconditional surrender" ultimatum and bring the war to a quicker end with more lenient terms.

Though peace-feeler rumors began to fly during the past week as Allied armies neared the border of Germany, one can say with absolute certainty that nothing of a nature serious enough to require the attention of the military has been received to date.

Neither has the rumor the Germans are preparing to use gas had any marked effect on Allied plans. We always have been ready for it, and are always ready to retaliate in case the Germans use gas first.

With their air power on the wane, the use of gas would appear to be a blunder too stupid even for the Fuehrer himself to make.

Killed in Action
WINNIPEG (CP) — Lieut. Mannin L. "Babe" Hobday, 22, prominent athlete, has been killed in action in France. It was learned here today. Lieut. Hobday was a member of the Winnipeg Rangers junior hockey team which won the Memorial Cup in 1941.

Needs More Aid
WASHINGTON (AP) — Noting much of Italy had been devastated by war, President Roosevelt said Friday her 45,000,000 people will need additional assistance from the Allies if she is to stand on her own feet.

Yarrows Shipyard Gets New Contract For Landing Craft

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty million dollars worth of ocean-going landing craft contracts now are placed with three British Columbia firms, and at least two Vancouver shipyards expect to resume four-berth operations to handle their share of the new war work, a survey shows.

Burrard Drydock Co. will hire 1,000 more workers, and will start construction of the landing-craft immediately in the north and south yards.

West Coast Shipbuilders Ltd. has been awarded contracts for two of the landing craft; Burrard has orders for five and Yarrows Ltd., Victoria, has had its original order for six boosted to eight.

Yarrows have been trying to obtain more workers since first landingcraft contracts were awarded there some weeks ago. This yard is already well started on two hulls.

Vancouver yards are also building Canadian freighters, and maintenance ships.

A few days ago Vancouver shipyards were reducing staffs at fairly rapid rate, with some layoffs being necessary.

It is revealed that the entire fleet of 15 ocean-going craft so far ordered from B.C. shipyards will be ready for sea by the end of 1945.

Launchings will start well before the end of 1944.

No Release of Douks

VANCOUVER (CP) — A plea of the Doukhobors are being improperly forced to do hard labor while awaiting appeal, failed to obtain their release when the application was heard in Supreme Court Friday by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady.

Altogether 32 Doukhobors are serving penitentiary sentences for nudist demonstrations in Vancouver and Nelson last spring.

To Spend Life In Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Richard D. Belt, 41, a soldier, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Magistrate H. S. Wood in police court here Friday after he had pleaded guilty to committing a statutory offence.

No Mortgage Payments In Crop-Failure Years

REGINA (CP) — Farm debt legislation scheduled to be introduced by the Douglas government at the first session of the new Saskatchewan Legislature in October will define a "crop failure" as a crop from which the amount realized is less than $6 per acre sown to grain, according to a draft of the measures now being considered by the cabinet.

Under the clause, as it is now drafted, the farmer in a year of crop failure will not be required to make any mortgage payments either by a share of his crop or in cash. The life of the mortgage will automatically be extended one year by the bill, and interest payments in the crop failure year will be canceled.

If there is disagreement between the mortgagee and mortgagor over whether or not a crop can be classed as a "crop failure," the legislation provides for the Saskatchewan mediation board to determine the matter.

Canada's 100,000,000th

CHERRIER, Que. (CP) — On a platform backed with flags of the United Nations and ringed with a variety of Canadian-made munitions and shells, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe received here Friday from munition workers replica of the 100,000,000th heavy projectile made in Canada since start of the war.

Letters To The Editor

BELGIUM'S KING

Sympathizers of Belgium in the fateful days which have followed since 1940 are elated with the news of Belgium's liberation. In addition to this they will have been pleased indeed with the remarks of Admiral of the Fleet, Lord Keyes, in defence of the King in his decision to stay with his people and risk imprisonment and worse at the hands of the Germans. Keys can speak with a knowledge and an authority, perhaps, held by no other person living. It is not often that with two alternative courses, both of which were honorable, that the easier would not have been chosen. The alternative of safety and comfort with honor could have been easily followed, but the King chose according to the higher dictates of his conscience at great risk to himself. It is gratifying to have one's faith in this gallant ruler justified by such a highly informed authority, and in the days between now and the complete liberation of his country and his restoration to freedom will be counted with anxious interest.
